

Amenity Forum Conference 21st October 2021

Conference Update

Our Annual Conference and Exhibition is very much regarded as a must attend event for all involved in or with an interest in the amenity sector, especially in relation to weed, pest and disease management.

This years event is on Thursday 21st October

The conference was due to be held at the Kettering Conference Centre but, due to the impact of the pandemic and restrictions, the owners of the venue have decided not to re-open until early 2022. As a result, the conference returns to the Pirelli Stadium, the home of Burton Albion FC, Burton on Trent and a location used previously. The conference programme and format remains exactly the same.

There are some excellent speakers and the conference theme of 'Facing the Future' is very apt given the times we are facing.

The conference will commence with policy updates from a senior UK government representative, the chemicals Regulation Department of HSE and from the Environment Agency. This will be followed by presentations drawn from different aspects of amenity addressing the issue of integrated approaches and how they are applying them in their day-to-day amenity management approaches. Following these will be presentations on the very important area of education and training, talking about opportunities for continuous professional development and how new advances in digital technology can help.

The penultimate section of the programme will comprise two presentations. The first will focus on managing parks safely and sustainably and the second, an expert view on assessing the full life cycle implications of different methods of amenity management, including taking into account effectiveness, economics and carbon foot printing. The conference will conclude with a presentation by the Head Groundsman at Lords Cricket Ground providing his take on the challenges ahead.
